Penny's Defeat at Cambridge Sets the College Politicians at Work.

CRIMSON MAY DROP THE RED AND BLUE

Old-Time Antagonism Now Finds an Excuse for Flaring Up and the Outcome May Effect Some Radical Changes.

The defeat of the Blue and the Red by the Crimson a week ago may mean more than simply a victory of Harvard over Pennsylvania, unusual as that is, for out of the result of that game have grown rumors that are more or less disquieting to the present status of football among the big four teams of the east.

It has long been no secret that there has been a not inconsiderable element among the Harvard undergraduates who have never cared much for a game with the Quakers. This hostile feeling toward the Pennsylvania culminates last spring when Harvard carried off everything at the Mott Haven games, when the other contending colleges, and particularly Harvard, alleged that Pennsylvania was represented by men who had not entered the university with the sole object in view of acquiring knowledge.

In case that the Penn and anti-Penn elements in Harvard can get together on a scheme of this kind, a very satisfactory quadrangular league is suggested, and this would be a better idea than the other. The plan is that Harvard and Yale shall play Princeton and Pennsylvania early in November on the same day, and the winner and loser play two weeks later.

The gridiron contest of the season up to date was easily the melee that occurred a week ago between Pennsylvania and Harvard. Its importance lay not only in the splendid foot ball that it brought out, but also in its general character as an unexpected result.

What becomes of the ball tosser during the winter is a query that many a fan puts to himself during the bleak months after the season's close. Of course, a portion of the diamond push engage in their only work of the year during the six months' interlude between the seasons, but, as a matter of fact, not more than 10 per cent engage in any occupation during that time.

proved upon and several other weaknesses ought to be bolstered.

The University of Pennsylvania has still to get ready for a hard game, that with Cornell on Thanksgiving day. Unless the Quakers recover from their downfall at Cambridge, in which their spirits were undoubtedly broken, they will have a hard time with the Cornellians. It is said at Boston that there is an open rupture between Coach Woodruff and some of the men who did not do good work against Harvard.

In her game with Penn, Harvard perfected a method for smashing the Quakers' famous guards' back play, which was partially used by Cornell last Thanksgiving day against Penn. The plan was to have the forward guards were pulled back to make their crashing onslaught into the middle of the line, some of the Harvard rushers were to fall on their knees and grab every blue and red leg in sight.

Nebraska had no trouble in capturing the championship of the Western intercollegiate association a week ago when she smothered the Jayhawkers on their native state. This element in Harvard has long wanted to discontinue the game, but the foot ball management could not well do so as long as Penn was regularly beating them.

But while Nebraska has won the intercollegiate championship it will hardly be able to pose as the foot ball champion of the Missouri valley. That honor seems to belong to the eleven of the Kansas City Medical college, which administered the only defeat of the season to Nebraska at Kansas City last Monday.

At the coming meeting of the big league magnates next month a scheme to break from the present two junction combination is bound to be sprung. Base ball writers in the east, some of them of considerable prominence, are assigning as a partial cause for the lack of patronage during the past season the load that the organization is carrying in the shape of a string of tail-enders.

rubber artists. His work on the slab during the major portion of the season was guided more by the brain tank that crowns his spinal column than that of any other twirler of the league. If he had had anything besides a congenial and steady dummies at his heels, who tossed off under ignorance or otherwise the chances he gave, Chancey would have been closer to the top round of the pitching ladder.

Some Miscellaneous Sport Cornell's Probable Demand on Yale the Thing That Makes College Men Hold Their Breath.

Where there is smoke there is usually some fire, and, therefore, there seems to be some foundation to the reports that Cornell is intending to send an athletic ultimatum to Yale, although the rumors are strenuously denied at Ithaca.

FOR LOVERS OF GUN AND ROD Fish Commissioner May Descant on the Benefits of the Exposition to His Chosen Field.

Fish Commissioner Lew May considers himself amply repaid for all the efforts he put forth in behalf of the Nebraska State Fish commission to make the fishery exhibit in the Government building at the exposition a success in the fact that some of the fish that were on display have been turned over to the commission.

The bunch of fish that has been turned over consists of the following: 1,250 8-months-old trout, principally lake; seventy 18-months-old brook, brown and Loch Leven trout; twenty-five 2 and 3-year-old brook, brown and Loch Leven trout; ninety-eight large-mouthed black bass ranging from 6 months to 2 years old; fifteen small-mouthed bass; forty-eight yellow bass, 2 years old; ten rock bass, 1 and 2 years old; seven white bass, sixty croppie, thirteen perch, seven wall-eyed pike, twelve large tench, twelve large goldenfish, five dogfish, two large goldenfish, one sharp, one pickerel, 200 small goldenfish and about 400 miscellaneous varieties consisting of sunfish, bullheads, catfish and carp.

Among the batch are a number of fish that the state commission has not at the hatcheries. For example, Lew May has been trying for years to get hold of some small-mouthed bass and has never succeeded. Yellow bass, white bass, large tench and Loch Leven trout are among the other species that the commission has never succeeded in getting hold of.

All the fish which are not represented at the hatcheries will be watched with care. Efforts will be made to breed them in order to propagate the different varieties, if possible.

Prof. Karlsruh, known in New York as the "blacksmith billiardist," has invented a new sort of billiard game that would turn an ordinary man's hair gray to learn. He takes half of a broken billiard ball and stands a big die, with the usual numbers on it, right over one of the "spots" on the table, and then freezes the object ball into one of the corners near it. The object is to carom from the frozen object ball on the half ball, and the shot counts the number shown by the die when it falls to the cloth.

Hall Adall, Terrible Turk II, better known as the "Sultan's Lion," is having as much trouble in catching his would-be wrestling competitors as his illustrious predecessor, who is now feeding the fishes at the bottom of the ocean. A week ago he was slated to wrestle with Tom Jenkins, a 175-pound citizen from Cincinnati, for $1,000, 75 per cent of the gate receipts and the world's championship. It was to be a catch-as-catch-can, straight hold barred, best two out of three falls but it developed into a first-class springing match.

Score of game played in the same contest between C. L. Owen, secretary of the association, Albion, and C. Q. De France, Lincoln. The game is incomplete, but furnishes a good study of opening:

Chess moves: RUY LOPEZ-BARNER-DEFENSE, White-Owen, Black-De France, 1-P to K4, 2-K to B3, 3-P to B3, 4-P to B3, 5-Castles, 6-Castles, 7-P takes P, 8-B to B2, 9-B takes Kt, 10-B to K5, 11-B to K3, 12-B to K3, 13-Resigns.

As it stands the game is slightly in favor of white, but the secretary, in sending his resignation, says: "It is impracticable for me to continue my games, hence I submit this resignation." The winner remarks that Secretary Owen is one of the best players in the tournament and every contestant will feel that a game lost to his play is preferable to one won because of the secretary's inability to continue his games.

Problem No. 49-By C. Q. De France, Lincoln. White to play and mate in nine moves.

Mate with bishop and knight is regarded as one of the most difficult in chess. Many good chess players find it hard to mate in the required fifty moves. The problem here can be done in nine moves against Black's best play or in a less number if Black makes a weak move.
